

Addiction Prevention Coalition

Angie Nazaretian Award

APC-Addiction Prevention Coalition, Adrienne Coleman

APC is a non-profit community resource that aims to eliminate addiction in Central Alabama. Originally named The Freedom Source, APC has been providing support for the greater Birmingham area for over a decade. Through in-school prevention programs, educational events, and our collection of support services, APC aims to be a convener of organizations united to prevent addiction and relapse. The purposed APC has set forth is to communicate awareness of addiction and provide education for the prevention of substance abuse so they can assist those seeking connection by creating a coalition in the community. Accepting this award is Adrienne Coleman, the Director of Student Initiatives. She directs the peer-led programs as well as coordinates the leaders of the Youth Advisory Council with training, leadership development and community service opportunities. The Executive Director of APC states that Adrienne loves each and ever student and the know it and that permeates everything she does.
